Love BOUND RETREATS

After the high octave wedding is wrapped up, the couple needs to relax, rejuvenate and rewind in a place where they feel ensconced in love. We list three places where they will make the most special memories of their time together as a honeymooning duo.

Words by Sharmi Adhikary

Cossimbazar Rajbari, Murshidabad, West Bengal

The Cossimbazar Rajbari belonging to the Roys is a fine example of the coming together of European and Indian architecture and it is sure to make the honeymooning couple feel like royalty. The property has been restored to its former glory by the aristocratic family to welcome guests who can stay there for short holidays and also participate in the various festivals and celebrations that the family hosts there. It is an apt heritage location to witness the traditions and culture of Durga Puja, Jagadhatri Puja and other festivals that have always been held here. Also, guests can witness the prestigious vintage car collection that the family still owns and which are part of glorious car rallies in Kolkata every winter. The huge mansion has all the trappings of a colonial palace replete with tall ceilings, archways, temples, fountains and gardens. Spend a winter weekend here to travel back in time.

How to Reach : The nearest airport is at Kolkata, located about 195 km from Murshidabad. The airport is well connected by flights to Indian cities including Mumbai, Delhi, Chennai and Bengaluru. From the airport taxi services are available for Murshidabad. Murshidabad railway station is connected by trains to Howrah, Mumbai, Chennai, Ahmedabad and several other Indian cities. Taxi services are available from the station.
